- 2 Set out expectations for all members of the school community with regards to remote learning
- 3 Provide appropriate guidelines for data protection

When providing remote learning from home, teachers must be available between 8.30am -3.30pm with a 45-minute lunch break.

If teachers are unable to work for any reason during this time, for example due to sickness, they should report this using the normal absence procedure. If this affects the completion of any work required, teachers must ensure arrangements have been made with support staff within their class.

When providing remote learning, teachers are responsible for:

1.Setting work:

- For pupils in their class.
- Setting literacy, maths and one additional session of either topic, science, PSHCE or RE each day. This will be set utilising school schemes of work. Additionally tasks linked to handwriting and spelling will be set throughout the week.
- Ensuring work is available to pupils from 8.30am on a daily basis Monday – Friday.
- Uploading work via the School Learning Platform – See Saw.

- A daily telephone call should be made to any pupils within your class who are not completing school work. A log of these calls is to be made and recorded as detail.
- Should you be unable to contact a family within a 48 hour period despite trying regularly this should be escalated to SLT who will conduct a home visit.
- If a pupil has been unable to access learning due to lack of technology, teachers are responsible for notifying the admin team, who will organise equipment to be loaned.

3.Virtual meetings or teaching sessions with staff, parents and pupils:

- Staff should ensure they are appropriately dressed adopting a professional smart, casual appearance.
- They should ensure that they choose an appropriate location to host these sessions and that there is nothing inappropriate in the background and aim to minimise any background noise.
- For safeguarding purposes, staff must ensure that an adult is present alongside the child when they are teaching online Zoom lessons. If the child is unaccompanied, the adult must end the teaching session for that child. At the soonest opportunity, the teacher should then contact the parent to emphasise the need for an adult to be present.
